Dear Mrs. Snyder.

I'm enclosing a diary which I'm sure will be of interest to you. It came into my hands last September when we entered Belgium and set-up around an air-strip near Charleroi. I became good friends with Mr. + Mrs. Barait and spent many evenings at their home. It was during one of these visits that they gave me the diary, had me translate it for them and insisted that someday I send it to you. I have held it until now because of censorship regulations but I believe it will be all right to send it to you now.

Mr. + Mrs. Barait asked at that time if I could find out if your husband was in good health but I had only your address so I was unable to do that. I have not seen them in several months so perhaps you have written to them.

Sincerely,

A. Jack Creek
